QUIETLY NESTLED BETWEEN VANCOUVER'S Chinatown, Gastown and Railtown neighbourhoods, Canada's first Indigenous Arts hotel, SKWACHAYS LODGE, is an award-winning facility ranked by Time Magazine and international travelers as one of the world's 100 greatest places.

When you check in to spend the night in one of SKWACHAYS LODGE'S stunning, Indigenous-themed rooms, you'll be welcomed with a respectfully chosen variety of items:

- A delicious gift assortment from GREEN & GREEN GIFTS WITH FLAIR that includes a distinctive Corrine Hunt-designed tray
- A First Nations-themed gift pack from MARQUIS WINE CELLARS and NK'MIP (INKAMEEP CELLARS)
- A fascinating story collection—Voices of the Winds: Native American Legends—along with a sweet little Ojibway coin purse from BANYEN BOOKS
- Selected items from the URBAN ABORIGINAL FAIR TRADE GALLERY AND GIFT SHOP
- A button-blanket-themed cosmetics bag
- A snuggly black and grey herringbone blanket designed by master Salish weaver Leila Stogan from the Musqueam Nation.
- The award-winning children's book When We Were Alone, a story about a difficult time in history—the residential schools that tore apart Indigenous families—is ultimately a tale of empowerment and strength that will touch the hearts and minds of readers of every age.

We trust that you will enjoy these special gifts and have a restful stay on the traditional, ancestral, unceded territory of the Musqueam, Squamish and Tsleil-Waututh Nations.
